

Services

- Tutoring
- Study Partner
- Old notes
- Training Partner

Mock Ads.

- Notes for Introduction to functional programming (CI505) - £49.99
 - Detailed notes for Introduction to functional programming (CI505). The notes include all the main topics covered in the 12 weeks, with additional relevant topics. An explanation for all the solutions in the lab task is also included.
- Study Partner - £10p/h
 - I am offering my services to help you study. These will include all-nighters if necessary, quizzing you on the notes you've made, or even just going to the library with you if you don't have anyone to go with. The price is negotiable depending on what I'm being requested to do.
- Tutoring - £30 p/h
 - As a final year student, I understand that some programming concepts may be challenging to grasp if this is your first time learning them, so I'm offering you a few hours a week to go over whichever topics you may be struggling with. My approach for these sessions would be from a different angle, mainly because it's a one-to-one session and I'm also not that far removed from that student who didn't understand.
- Training Partner - £15p/h
 - Yes, you could get a personal trainer that'll make you do exercises that make you feel uncomfortable, or you could go with your friends who quits after your 3rd session together, or you could book me at £15p/h (half what a personal trainer costs). You'll have a training partner that's committed to your goal as much as you are. You may even form a lifelong friendship from training together.